REV. AND MRS. C. C. ROSS, of the Youngsville Methodist church, were welcomed back to the community in a delightful affair which followed the program of the daily vacation bible school on Friday evening. Anderson, RD 1, Clarendon, pulled his 1948 Ford from the east curb of Hickory st. directly into the path of a vehicle being operated by Warren Ross, of Corry. A Near Head-on occurred when cars of Edward Sweet, Oil City, and Tom Letrent, 302 Eddy st., Warren, met at Cummings' Service station on Pennsylvania ave., Warren. Sweet was pulling into the station just as Letrent was leaving and neither driver saw the other approaching. The Sweet car suffered $150 in damages. The accident happened at 1:30 p. m. on Friday, July 1.

Property Damages Totalling $1200 resulted when Frank R. Reiff, RD 1, Clarendon, dozed off while traveling east on Pennsylvania ave. W. His auto went off the road, struck a telephone pole and "No Parking" sign. It must have been a siesta as the accident occurred at 2:50 p. m. on Friday, July 1.

Hit And Run. Owen Lester, 5 Center st., Warren, was arrested after a chase by state police at 12:50 a. m. on Sunday, July 3. Lester side-swiped William Bevevino's car on Pennsylvania ave. and failed to stop after the accident. State police who observed the accident gave chase and followed the offender up Pennsylvania ave., north on North st. to Park, east on Park onto Cobham Park road where Lester's car overturned. Damages totaling $1300 were sustained by Lester's machine and $20 by Bevevino's.

Three Out-Of-Towners, John Kester, of Bells Landing, Michael Onufer, of Russell, and Theodore Raiser, of Erie, were involved in an accident at 4:42 p. m., Sunday, July 3. Kester and Onufer stopped suddenly in front of Dan's Used Car Lot and Raiser struck the rear of the Onufer machine driving it into the Kester vehicle. Raiser's damages amounted to $300 and each of the others were estimated at $50.

Blowing His Horn and coming to a complete stop did not prohibit Alfred Spadafore of Erie from being involved in an accident on Independence Day on Pennsylvania ave. in Warren. Alfred Stiteler, of Jamestown, thought he had lots of room to back onto the highway, misjudged the distance, and struck Spadafore's machine which had come to a complete stop.

A Hit And Run accident occurred on July 2 north of Warren. Paul Deliman's car was side-swiped and the offending driver failed to stop. The guilty party was apprehended later by State Police who spotted the car in Warren.

Four Were Injured when Paul Campbell, RD 2, Titusville, stopped suddenly on Rt. 6 just west of Warren during the heavy traffic into the borough on July 4. Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard and their children Diane, 13, and Dixie, 11, were injured enough to be taken to Warren General Hospital. The Blanchard machine suffered $500 in damages and Campbell's car was damaged $10 worth.

YOUNGVILLE COUNCILMEN SWITCH STAND ON PROPOSED STREET EXT.

After hearing complaints from Mrs. Mae Downey and her daughter, Ada, listening to a letter of protest from Mrs. Betty Kay, and verbal exchanges with Lewis Crippen, reporter for the Youngsville Edition, Warren Observer, the Youngsville borough council voted to accept a right-of-way for sewer and water lines in lieu of the proposed ordinance which would have opened Fourth st. extension to meet the recently-accepted Division st.

Miss Ada Downey protested the street ordinance on the basis that four large trees would have to be removed which held sentimental values and help to control surface water problems, that their garage would need to be relocated and probably rebuilt, and that perennial flowers and bushes would be destroyed or require replanting. She explained that the suggestion of sewer and water right-of-way was a "more talkable" proposal. Mrs. Downey received no replies when she asked a direct question to the members of the council as to which one would like a street that close to his house.

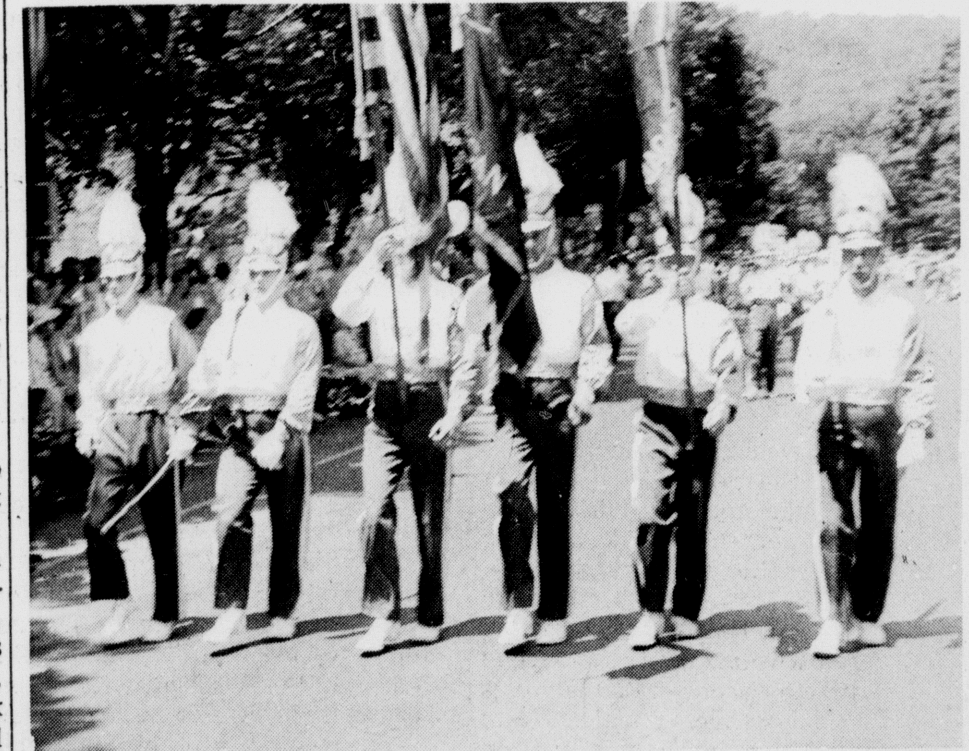

President Sanford thanked the visitors for their comments and threw the problem open for a decision of the lawmakers. Councilman Anderson moved that the right-of-way be accepted and that the Fourth st. extension plans be dropped. After being supported by Councilman Borton the motion received the unanimous support of the seven members.

Donald Aberg, speaking on behalf of his mother who was also present for the meeting, advised that the ordinance passed by council which opens High st. through his property would cause damages estimated conservatively at $5,000. He stated they were willing to provide a right-of-way for sewer and water lines or sell the entire property to the borough. Mr. Harper, borough solicitor, suggested that the ordinance should be enforced as passed or repealed.

After comments by Aberg and John Steffan, another property owner on the High st. extension, that the signers of the petition requesting the extension were, on the most part, from the end of High st. which is not in question, the council decided to take no further action until next meeting on August 1. Two weeks before the next meeting the street committee, Councilmen Wilson, Mariner, and Anderson, will meet with Aberg to survey the problem first-hand.

Next week, other items of borough business will be covered which space does not permit to be adequately explained in this issue.

BUYERS' CORNER

Two Bait Advertisers

The Federal Trade Commission is after bait advertisers, but it has a long way to go before it makes much of a dent. It now is prosecuting two in Washington for advertising reconditioned vacuum cleaners which the complaint says they do not intend to sell, and make no effort to sell. They simply use such ads to get their salesmen inside your door where they can forget the machine advertised and smoothly talk you into a new one. About all we can say is beware of the ad which week after week advertises the same machine or machines, as rebuilt and ready to use...in fact guaranteed.

Watch Your Needles

If you buy phonograph needles, and most do these days, the FTC is charging the Recoton Corp. with false claims about the tips of their needles. They are not sapphire, ruby, or jewels, but synthetic materials. And this is not the world's largest manufacturer of pho-needles, as advertised, says the FTC.

Health Insurance Consent

Another of the insurance companies which the FTC claimed made advertising statements which were not true has consented to an order which terminates its making certain representations about its accident and health insurance policies. Such claims involve medical examinations, extent of coverage, period of coverage, and related statements.

Beer Discriminates

Anheuser-Busch, Inc. has been charged with discriminating in price among its customers in the sale of Budweiser beer. It has lowered its prices in the area cited to undersell local beers and to take over 40 per cent of the market. Before its series of price reductions in this one section it had only 14 per cent.

For example, its case of 24 1-2 ounce bottles was selling for $2.93. It finally ended up at $2.35. In all other areas of the United States the same beer continued to sell at premium prices. This violates the Clayton Act, says the FTC.

Bakery Deals Exclusively

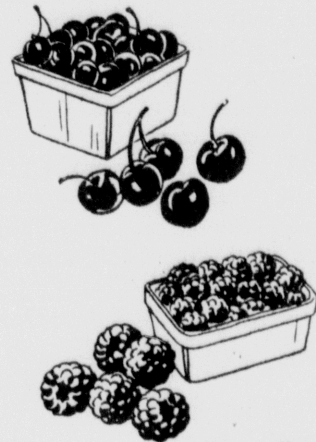

The FTC is attempting to prohibit the maker of Freshbake, Holsum, and Duncan Hines from using exclusive dealer contracts. The maker is Cross Baking Company, of Montpelier, Vt. The FTC charges that the Company is selling merchandise on condition that purchasers do not use competitor products. This is a violation of the Clayton Act.

An example is the Company's arrangement with the Grand Union to handle Cross bakery products exclusively. Similar arrangements are charged with a buying agent for the Red and White Stores.

Used Oil Sold As New

A charge has been placed against the Salyer Refining Co., in which it is claimed it is representing that Stay-Ready and Aeroil are new oil. The FTC says they are made from reclaimed and reprocessed motor oils, and the prices of 35 cents and 40 cents are considered on the new oil level by most motorists. However, they come from crank cases and other sources.

"CHILDREN CAN BE FUN" is the theme of the Russell 4-H program for this summer. The girls, through actual experiences, are learning complete child care. At the time the picture was taken the young ladies were painting, lead-free paint to prohibit poisoning of course, the toys they had made with which they expect to entertain their charges. The summer course includes sewing aprons and bibs as well as cooking for children.

PITTSFIELD COOKETTES. The only loafing for these girls this summer will be made with bread dough as they have chosen "Fun To Cook" as the theme of their 4-H activities. Between now and the fall roundup, the girls will concentrate on baked goods for display purposes if they can keep from eating their accomplishments that long. Part of the twenty-three members were present for the demonstration on Friday in the Pittsfield Community House. At the precise moment, Emogene Jones was adding the dry ingredients for a cake as the following watched: ROW I: (LEFT TO RIGHT) Carol Bubash, Joyce Abraham, Sue Ann Johnson,

Ruth Abraham, Judy Danielson, Paula Gurdak, Janice Wolfe. ROW II: Loretta Lake, Ann Rodgers, Carol Morris, Marie Wolfe, Rebecca Crull, Frances Bubash, Mary Edith Jones. Adult advisors included Mrs. Homer Wolfe, community leader, and Geraldine Johnston, of the county extension office.

Drama TV Radio Music Reading Hobbies

A Growing Sport

When we arose in ire about the slipshod way in which the national golf open was covered by television and radio there no doubt were some who thought we had a personal peeve because of a pet project or hobby. But we were not speaking of a personal feeling. Our little whisper among the many was a part of the grumble heard from over five million participants.

That is quite a pile of participants. We aren't talking about spectators who sit in the stands and let John do it. We are talking about those who buy balls, clubs, shoes, bags, and numerous other gadgets for the purpose of reducing the number of strokes between here and there. These five million are not sitting on their hands. They are using them, and also their legs.

It is a great sport, a family sport. Grandfather, sonny boy, and junior can play in the same foursome...and have fun. Mother, daughter, and sis also are in there pitching to the green. And a real modern lay-out has a picnic area nearby so that Sunday can be a full day for all.

At the rate the game is growing, Business Week, which even the shellbacks must admit knows something about things to come in the dollars and cents world, predicts that there will be six thousand courses in this nation by 1960. The number now is 5,134, and it has been growing rapidly since 1945 when it hit a low after the war sag.

Just before the depression hit, the number was about 5,856, but the lack of dollars sent people into other lines of pleasure. The war further reduced play. But now the game is moving upward so rapidly that anyone who wants to play in the large cities finds it necessary to be at the tee early in the morning and then may wait two or three hours.

Warren is woefully lacking in the facility. The Conewango Valley Country Club does not begin to accommodate the golfers in Warren, and if a public course were available, the number would double. By a public course we mean one within five miles of town which is open to all who want to pay a greens fee or buy a summer's membership. Courses further away than that cannot be considered strictly Warren, but even at that you will find about three hundred lugging clubs to courses twenty to thirty miles away every week end, and the new Kinzua course, about twelve miles away, should enjoy much support.

The biggest increase in the game took place between 1923 and 1930. In those seven years 3,900 courses were built. It can happen again...if people want them enough.

Your Legs Will Show

If a man has his way his legs are about to protrude. In fact they already are in some frightening cases. Thinking of golf reminded us of the current emancipation of the American male's shanks. Shorts are becoming more widely used each summer, and we sometimes wonder if much of the bad putting is not due to the distracting presence of a pair of bony knees between the eye and the ball.

LeRoy Schneck adorned himself in Bermudas, with coat, to MC the Warren queen contest. There's a brave man. For a perfect blend of

President Out-Does Do Nothings

By Doris Fleeson

WASHINGTON. — It is normal in Washington as July and the adjournment of Congress approach. It is the season when temperatures and political tempers soar.

At this point the President and Congress each start trying to grab the credit for what has been accomplished while blaming the other for all the sins of omission. Their tug-of-war has practically the status of a rite and President Eisenhower and majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson have now observed it with due color and vehemence.

Their exchange is not quite as memorable as Harry Truman's Turnip Day and snollygosters were but in this dull session of Congress it is more than welcome. Republicans will be glad to see their President acting like a true Republican politician and Democrats will be secretly pleased to see Johnson reminded that while Texas loves Ike, Ike doesn't necessarily love Texas's Johnson.

An informed guess is that Johnson irked the President on two counts this week. One was the Senate's defeat of the atoms-for-peace merchant ship, a pet Eisenhower project he had told Republican leaders he must have. The other was Johnson's gibe that the "political leader" (Eisenhower) who forecast a "cold war" if a Democratic Congress were elected had better send his "Madison Avenue speech writers" to their dictionaries for a new definition of "cold war."

The President is sensitive to jokes about "Madison Avenue," a phrase commonly used to describe the great advertising agencies which have their plush offices on that thoroughfare in Manhattan. The jests began when actor Robert Montgomery and advertising experts were moved into the White House to stage the President's telecasts.

The President was primed for a question about Johnson's remarks at his press conference. Dramatically whipping out a piece of paper and reddening appropriately, he announced his list of what Congress should have done and hadn't.

Except for the military reserve program and his ship, it wasn't too formidable. It is hard to believe for example that he lies awake nights about Hawaiian statehood. There is, of course, no news in the fact that Presidents get to like their own way rather more than somewhat.

Senator Johnson has snapped back with a reminder that Congress is not composed of "second lieutenants." It is all according to Hoyle — so far.

Like a Texan who preceded him to Washington, former Senator Tom Connally, Johnson is capable of biting sarcasm. He strives for the light touch and has often achieved it but when he is pushed, he can deal wounds not easily forgotten.

The President is naturally in a self-confident mood. The reporters who accompanied him on his New England safari all described his pleasure and ease as he met large and admiring crowds. They wrote that in contrast to 1952 he appeared to love campaigning and to enjoy that aspect of his job more than he does Washington.

The former Democratic National Chairman, Stephen Mitchell, has a comment on that. He told a recent audience: "Ike loves to run for office better than he likes running an office." The White House reporters agree.

The Rivers Belong To All Of Us

By Thomas L. Stokes

WASHINGTON. -- One way of looking at this battle between private and public development of our great river systems is as a battle between two types of minds.

One is the countinghouse, stockbroker mind which never raises its eyes beyond its ledgers and the ticker tape. It sees a power site as a means of profit for a utility company that holds the monopoly, an item on an account sheet, and not as a unit in a possible bigger and broader development of a whole river system which, instead, would benefit everybody in the region and the whole economy.

The other type of mind is that which can see that big, broad canvass, as did, for example, Theodore Roosevelt half a century ago. He saw likewise that only the Federal government can develop a whole river system, including its tributaries, in an integrated way to get the most out of it for the most people in the way of hydroelectric power, irrigation, navigation and flood control.

Theodore Roosevelt never lived to see his dream come true; but some of the rest of us now have come to see a beginning of it. We are thrilled when we visit the great dams here and there which the people have built for themselves through their government, when we see the rich dividends in new and fertile farm lands protected from floods, and when we see new communities, new homes, new industries providing new jobs. All of that not only enriches human living but actually pays out many times in income tax returns to our Federal treasury.

One wonders what Theodore Roosevelt would say could he come back today and see the countinghouse mind once dominant again, plotting against any further realization of the dream which still is only partly fulfilled. One wonders, for instance, what Theodore Roosevelt would say to Herbert Hoover.

To one who has seen much of the story develop it is not hard to understand why the cold, countinghouse mind has been directed at our water resources program by the Hoover Commission.

We who were around here then can remember how Herbert Hoover opposed the public development of Muscle Shoals in Alabama -- which in time flowered into the great TVA -- and vetoed in 1931 a bill passed by Congress for that purpose, as had President Calvin Coolidge before him in that countinghouse era of the 1920's.

The memory goes back still further to an early assignment of a young reporter which was covering the hearings before the House Military Affairs Committee in 1922 on various bills authorizing the sale of the first World War Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals and its nitrate plants to private industries, the bidders including Henry Ford. But a farsighted Senator, George W. Norris of Nebraska, saw possibilities of its development in the public interest for electric power and cheap fertilizer for farmers. Though his bills for that purpose were vetoed by the two Presidents, he prevented passage of bills to hand over the government dam and plants -- paid for by the taxpayers -- to private interests at bargain prices.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt succeeded Herbert Hoover in the White House he espoused a broadening of the Norris Muscle Shoals venture into the TVA embracing the whole Tennessee River system. Congress enacted it. Senator Norris saw his dream come true, and not only in the Tennessee Valley. For TVA was followed in time by great public projects of the same kind in various parts of the country.

The way was prepared for sound, integrated public development of our river systems in the public interest by the six-year investigation by the Federal Trade Commission, authorized by the Senate in the Hoover Administration. That showed how the utilities had failed us. Revealed was the exploitation of the monopolies they controlled -- the inflation of book values to increase the rate base and rates; the piling of one holding company upon another to milk out profits; the frenzied speculation in utility stocks that contributed to the mania that ended in the stock market crash.

All of that was corrected by various reform statutes, including the Public Utility Holding Company Act and the Securities and Exchange Act, among others. The result was a stabilization of the business of the utilities from which they and the public benefited. Their business expanded greatly, hand-in-hand with public development of great river valley projects which the government alone is equipped to develop in the over-all manner required to yield the best returns for the public.

But now this balance of functions is threatened once again. Utility interests are seeking to upset it, to try to stop necessary public de-

Wildcats Drop 3 P-Y Games

The Fourth of July week end proved to be anything but a holiday week end for the Ludlow Wildcats as they were defeated three times by Penn-York league opponents. On Saturday the 'Cats came back from Bradford on the short end of a 5 to 4 count. Sunday the Wildcats played on their home diamond and even that didn't change things as Jamestown Art Metal downed the Ludlow nine, 12 to 10. On the Fourth of July Salamanca had all the fireworks and battered Ludlow, 11 to 4.

Next Sunday the 'Cats return to Penn-York league action and take on first place Jamestown Marlin-Rockwell at 3 p. m. on the Ludlow diamond.

Industrial Managers Meet Tonight

Team managers of the Industrial Softball League will meet at the YMCA tonight (Thursday) at 8:30 p. m. Second half rosters will be handed in at the meeting.

Cersolsun, Texas Lunch Tied For Industrial Lead

Cersolsun and Texas Lunch, each with one game to make up to complete their first half schedule, are tied for first place in the race for the first half crown in the Industrial Softball loop with 12 wins and 1 setback. If both teams are still tied for top position after they have completed their make-up game, a one-game playoff will decide the first half championship. Texas Lunch edged Cersolsun, 2 to 1, to throw the league lead into a deadlock. Sweet, the winning hurler for Texas Lunch, allowed only one hit, a fifth-inning homerun by Ned Bartholemew, Cersolsun center fielder. Ken Sorenson, who was on the hill for Cersolsun, gave up only four hits, a home run by Texas shortstop Monk Murphy, a double by Bill Brown and two doubles off the bat of Bill Massa.

Guiffre's downed Jones' Chevrolet, 10 to 9, in the last of the ninth inning when Boony Sturdevant singled home the winning run with one out and the bases loaded. Anderson was the winning pitcher for Guiffre's and Mike Shanshala was Guiffre's catcher. Steve Hoden, Farnsworth and Bubby Johnson were the Jones' battery.

Cersolsun shaded Thomas Coupling, 4 to 3, and New Process Co. took a forfeit win from Thomas Coupling in the only other league activity during the week.

Second half action in the Industrial softball loop will commence on Monday, July 11, with three games scheduled.

Fred Paces Qualifiers

Fred Paine, formerly assistant golf pro at Warren and now re-established as an amateur, led the western qualifying for the state amateur with a 144 at Oakmont. Fred is amateur champ of that club.

Fred, who married Barbara Johnson, of Warren, will forsake the Erie Open, which is good news to area amateurs, to seek the state amateur title that week.

Conewango Action

Skip Morine got back on his game and shot one under par for nine holes to lead the weekly CVCC tournament with 35. Pete Juliano led the special event when his ball stopped four and a half feet from the pin on number seven.

A couple of blind bogeys also were held this week. Lou Wanner, Al Loranger, and Walt Dremann drew the lucky numbers on one, and the other was divided among Harold Smith, Merle Rossell, and Dr. Wally Sedwick.

A mixed two-ball foursome event held the Fourth was won by Mrs. Harold Banghart and Harold Smith with net 69's. Tied for second were Mrs. J. J. Carter and W. E. Rice, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Proctor, at 70.

This week the men are having a flag tournament, a 4 Saturday they will shoot a handicap tournament for the President's Cup. Next Thursday it will be a handicap tournament.

Saturday Deadline For Jaycee Baseball Excursion Registration

Area youngsters between the ages of 9 and 15 who intend to participate in the Jaycee Baseball Excursion to Cleveland on Saturday, July 16, must hand in their registration by Saturday, July 9. Registration blanks should be turned in at the YMCA in Warren or to Bill Oehlenschlaeger in Youngsville.

Youngsters making the trip to see the Cleveland Indians play the Boston Red Sox on Saturday, July 16, are requested to meet at Fourth and Hickory Streets at 7 a. m. on the day of the trip. Those making the trip should take along a coat or jacket in event of cold or rainy weather and also enough pocket money for a meal on the return trip.

Volunteer Drivers Still Needed By Jaycees

A few more volunteer drivers are still needed by the Jaycees to help make their baseball excursion to Cleveland on Saturday, July 16 a success. Interested adults can help the Jaycees by contacting Frank McHenry, phone 1742-W, Jack Hickey, phone 1478-M or Dick Scalise, phone 2344-J.

Drivers who have already signed up for the excursion will be contacted by the Committee for further instructions.

Gas Free For Jaycee Excursion Drivers

Through the courtesy of the Emblem Oil Company and the United Refinery gasoline will be donated free of charge to all drivers participating in the Jaycee baseball excursion to Cleveland on Saturday, July 16. The committee requests that all drivers fill up their tanks with gasoline on Friday night, July 15 at any of the three Keystone service stations in Warren: Ettinger's Keystone Service on Third Avenue across from the Library Theater, Jackson's Keystone Service at Pennsylvania Ave., E., and Water Street, or the Keystone Station on Pennsylvania Ave., E., near Glade Run.

Names of all drivers must be in the hands of the Jaycee baseball excursion committee by Tuesday, July 12 for drivers to be able to get their tank of gasoline.

Youngsters and adult drivers wishing to participate in this baseball excursion will find a registration blank printed in this week's issue of the Observer.

Elks Beat League Leaders

The Warren Elks went to Jamestown last Sunday and shaded the previously-unbeaten Marlin-Rockwell nine, 6 to 5. Freddie Gray went the distance on the mound for the Elks.

The Elks' win, combined with the Ludlow Wildcats' three losses during the week end, puts the Warren nine back into second place in the Penn-York league. The Elks have won 5 and lost 3 in league competition and Ludlow has won 3 games and dropped 5 games in Penn-York league play. The first-place Marlin-Rockwell team has won 7 Penn-York games and lost only the one game to the Warren Elks.

Kane Nine Downs Warren Indies

The newly-formed Warren Independents tasted defeat for the second time in their young season last Saturday when the Kane American Legion outscored the Indies, 13 to 9. Jerry Crosley and Tom Solock shared the pitching chores for Warren and Chuck Salerno was behind the plate.

The Indies will meet the Kane Legion in a return game on War Memorial Field Sunday, July 17.

Major Tournament

Golfers of the area can see some real big time play if they visit Moon Brook, near Jamestown, Friday or Saturday. The state amateur tournament will be getting into its final stages, and some very fine performers will be matching shots. Three former champions, Bob Monk, of White Plains, Billy Shields, of Albany, Tommy Goodwin, of Rye, will be in the field.

The course has been lengthened and the fairways narrowed, but just to show the boys it isn't too tough, Toby Lyons took a few of the entrants out for a round Sunday and fired a 63. Jerry Damiano, of Syracuse, posted a 67. Bob Bishop, of Jamestown, is the local hope.

Luncheon with the Duke and Duchess

Every man, I've always said, has two families — his own and Dorothy and Dick's. (Dorothy Kilgallen and Dick Kollmar, as if you didn't know.) Man leads his own grubby little life with his own family but every morning he tunes in WOR to get a little glamor to help get down the oatmeal. Makes existence palatable.

Well, sir, not long ago Dorothy and Dick were invited to lunch at the Duke and Duchess of Windsor's outside Paris and for weeks we listened, starry-eyed, to their adventures — the oatmeal forgotten. I once had an aunt who could spin out a single luncheon into twenty years of reminiscence and I won't pretend that Dorothy and Dick could even lay a hand on the old girl in this field.

But still they did mighty well. A couple of weeks, not only on their morning show but on their late afternoon show — all over a single lunch. You must admit it isn't just any one who can get mileage like that. We heard just what they ate, what everyone wore, what everyone said.

Of course, some of it was a little maddening because there wasn't time, you understand. Dorothy (or Dick) would get to talking about that fascinating conversation after lunch in which the wit and glamor reached a pinnacle not achieved since the days of Madame Recamier's salon — but, unfortunately, we're running out of time now. Tune in again tonight.

Gads, it was frustrating. What did the Duchess say to the Duke? What did the Countess Bismarck say to Dick? Well, you just had to wait until 6:15, biting your nails. This is the new-style cliff-hanger. Back when I was a boy, you'd get teased into listening to the next installment with something like: "Will Nora recover consciousness? Will Uncle Will get back to Springdale in time to pluck the will from the fireplace? Is Honeychile really the daughter of fabulously wealthy old Jefferson Cates Hunter? Tune in again tomorrow...." And so forth and so forth.

But not any more. Now it's who said what to who. And who laughed.

Then, of course, there was the description of the house — room by room. Here again we were always cut off just when it got interesting. Time and again, it seemed to me, we were just on the threshold of the Duke's room. Well, that's all for today; we'll continue this tomorrow. I practically had one foot in the room — and, wham, they slam the door on it.

(When they finally got to the Duke's room, they both had a good laugh. It was so much smaller than the Duchess's. This led to a philosophical discussion, punctuated with laughter, that all wives wound up with more sleeping space than their spouse's — a situation that I imagine Madame Recamier and her bunch kicked around from time to time, too.)

Then there was the matter of clothes. Dorothy didn't know what to wear and was still pretty nervous about it when she showed up wearing something frightfully simple. But it so happened that the Duchess was wearing something frightfully simple, too, and asked Dorothy where on earth she got that dress. And Dorothy told her. The Countess Bismarck, who was once Mrs. Harrison Williams, asked her where she got the dress, too. And she learned. And so did we.

I forget whether the Countess contributed anything else to the luncheon. The one topic she did not bring up was the fact that her son, Bobby, had just been arrested on charges of embezzling money from friends in order to buy jewelry for Linda Christian. That didn't come up.

Well, you have to grow up with the times. Years ago it was the man who came to dinner — and broke his hip and stayed for six weeks. Now it's the couple who came to lunch — and talk about it for two weeks on the radio.

Shaky Investment

We can remember several occasions when efforts were made to sell Warren on the idea that an improved athletic field would pay for itself through a Pony league baseball entry. Today the Pony league is so shaky because of poor attendance that at least four teams are wondering if they will finish the season. And the records will show that most communities have been forced to augment the maintenance costs of their fields with public funds.

Let Them See

It seems to us that the best way to beat the Russians is with a good missionary job. This could be many-sided. One would be to make it easy for Russians to visit us. Why make it tough?

The best propaganda we could give them is not propaganda at all, but the facts which they would be free to see with their own eyes. Guided tours would be of no value because of their full knowledge of similar handling of American tourists in Russia.

It has been suggested that we should send them movies. But movies also are subject to skepticism. We wouldn't believe theirs. Why should we expect them to believe ours?

Take off the reins and let them see the country. A few thousand annually returning to their homes with glowing accounts of what they would see, could change many minds and sell democracy. Every one would be a missionary. Not paid by us, not born among us, but an impressed Russian with a true story to tell.

Let the people mingle with the people. There will be an end of wars.

Famous Attorney Dies

Lemuel B. Schofield, of Philadelphia, died of a heart attack Sunday at the age of 62. He was a Warren man, born to a prominent family, and made a name in Philadelphia and national circles as a leading lawyer.

In Warren he is best remembered for his sensational defense of the late Judge D. U. Arird, when the state superior court investigated events in the sentencing of two confessed murderers in the Airport case. They claimed Judge Arird promised them leniency if they would plead guilty. He gave them the chair. Governor Earle changed it to life.

The Philadelphia attorney also is remembered for his legal work in the Caroline Watson estate in which he bucked local banking interests as auditor. The old Schofield home, opposite the fire station on Third ave., now is owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Fuelhart.

OUTDOORS

(Game Commission Release) SPECIAL NEWS RELEASE

On July 1 the Pennsylvania Game Commission met at Harrisburg and set the following daily, season and possession limits for the taking of game birds, game animals and furbearers during the hunting license period beginning September 1, 1955, and ending August 31, 1956.

Commission Sets Antlerless Deer Season

Based upon the findings of Commission personnel and forestry officials, and on the recommendations of sportsmen, farmers and others in position to know the situation, the Pennsylvania Game Commission today established a two-day state-wide antlerless deer season, to take place December 12 and 13, 1955. Here are the reasons for that decision:

1. Pennsylvanians are experiencing great deer damage to farm crops in many counties, and the Commission realizes farmers must be relieved of this damage.

2. There are many forested areas in the state under the ownership of the Commonwealth, the Federal Government, and private interests that are undergoing severe overbrowsing by deer. This is not only detrimental to forest resources but to the deer as well.

3. There are many areas in the state where an overabundance of deer has caused many highway accidents, not only causing loss of human life but also hundreds of thousands of dollars of property damage.

The Game Commission has used every bit of information available in attempting to establish the kill quotas in counties where the problem is present. In regards to this the Commission has purposely established high quotas in some counties and low quotas in others. This was done after serious consideration of conditions in each county and on the advice of the Pennsylvania Sportsmen's Federation, game protectors and citizens. This was the recommendation, also, at the June 30 meeting with representatives of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters and the Allegheny National Forest.

At the meeting held in Harrisburg on June 30, when all the recognized conservation agencies met with the Game Commission, it was the unanimous opinion of the organizations represented that the Commission should recognize the fact there are too many deer in many areas of the state and that action should be taken to correct the situation.

The season on small game and other wild birds or animals, excepting migratory birds, will open at 9 a. m., Saturday, October 29, and run until 5 p. m., Saturday, November 26. Otherwise, daily shooting hours are 7 a. m. to 5 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, Sundays excepted.

The season for ruffed grouse, grouse, wild turkeys, male ring-neck pheasants, gray, black and fox squirrels, bobwhite quail, and cottontail rabbits will run for the full season state-wide. Limits on them are the same as last year, except that gray, black and fox squirrels have a combined limit of 6 a day and 24 the season; grouse will be 2 a day and 8 the season; wild turkeys, 1 and 1; ring-neck pheasants (cocks only), 2 and 8; quail, 4 and 12; cottontail rabbits, 4 and 20.

There is no close season on raccoons. They may be taken in unlimited numbers on all days except Sundays by either the hunting or trapping method until September 1, 1956.

There is no close season on woodchucks (groundhogs). They may be taken in unlimited numbers except on Sundays during the same twelve month period.

Snowshoe rabbits (varying hares) may be hunted January 2 to 7, inclusive, 1956. The limit: 2 a day, 6 the season.

There will be no close season on grackles during the 1955 license period, and red squirrels are unprotected all months except October 1 to 28, inclusive, 1955.

Regulations covering possession and transportation limits of legally killed small game are the same as last year. They allow not more than the daily limit for the first day nor more than an accumulated total for each succeeding day of the open season for each species. But small game shall not be in excess of the season limit, regardless where held, stored or found in possession.

There will be no open season on: Hungarian partridges, hen pheasants, sharp-tailed grouse, and others.

BIG GAME

Shooting hours: 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. all days of deer and bear seasons, excepting the archers' October deer season, given below.

Bears:

The season on bears will run for two weeks this year, as last — November 14-26, inclusive. Only bears over one year old are legal game. An individual hunter may take one bear in the 1955 season. A hunting party of 3 or more persons may take 2 bears in one day or during the entire season.

Antlered Deer:

From November 28 to December 10, inclusive, a two-week "buck" season, state-wide, for animals of the following description: male deer with 2 or more points to one antler; provided, a male deer with an antler 3 or more inches long without points, measuring from the top of the skull as the deer is in life, shall be considered legal, as in the 1954 season.

Antlerless Deer:

There will be a special two-day season, state-wide, for antlerless deer, Monday and Tuesday, December 12 and 13. Hunters desiring to avail themselves of this special season must possess an antlerless deer license in addition to the current hunting license. Special antlerless licenses will be allocated in accordance with the present provisions of the Game Law, and can be obtained only from county treasurers in the county in which the individual desires to hunt. Detailed information as to allocations will be forthcoming directly.

Bow Season for Deer:

The two-week archers' season, October 10 to 2, inclusive, will be for male deer only as described in the antlered deer season above. In addition to the regular hunting license every bow hunter, without exception, must procure a special archery license costing $2.00 from the Department of Revenue only,

Harrisburg, in order to hunt deer during the special bow season. Shooting hours during this special October bow and arrow season for deer shall be, as set by recent legislation, from 6 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., E.S.T., all days of the season.

Certain Big Game Closed:

There will be no open season in 1955 on spike bucks with antlers less than three inches long, cub bears, and elk.

Furbearer Seasons

Mink season will extend from November 5 to December 31, with no limit on the take.

Muskrats, in unlimited numbers, may be taken by the trapping method only December 3 to January 28.

Skunks and opossums remain on the unprotected list. They may be taken in unlimited numbers until September 1, 1956.

The beaver season was again set for three weeks, February 15 to March 5, 1956, by trapping only. The number of these furbearers that may be taken will be, as last season, 4 in one day or 4 the season.

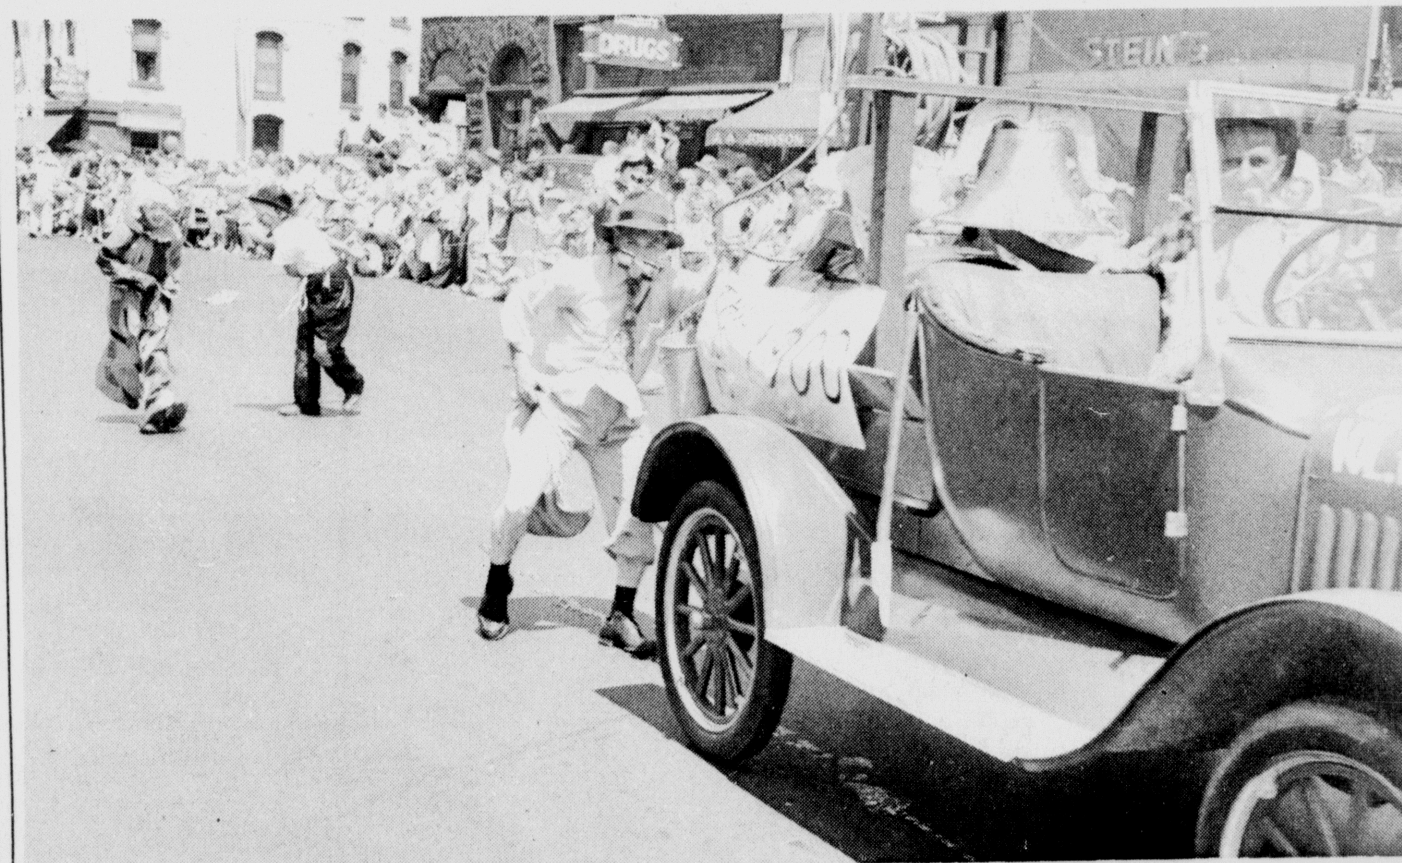

All hunting and trapping dates given above are inclusive, except that the last day of each trapping season terminates at noon.

Hunters and trappers are urged to study the information on their 1955 hunting licenses, also to consult the leaflet issued with each license for additional details.

"OH, YOU BEAUTIFUL DAHL." After very careful deliberations, judges gave the nod to Miss Carol Dahl, of North Warren, as Queen of the Warren Independence Day celebration. Miss Shirley Brown, last year's regent, placed the crown on Carol's blonde coiffure amid the thunderous applause of a crowd estimated in excess of 2,000 persons who jammed the lawn of the Warren municipal building.

By Bob Walsh

How About The High School?

A great many months ago, it seems it was early last fall, two firms were asked to look over the present Warren high school building and to provide comparative costs. These costs would compare the money needed to remodel the present structure to the amount required for building a new one.

We have been told that these reports were made many weeks ago, but in no report of board meetings do we find them. Inasmuch as the public is going to pay the bill, and because such expense is not the exclusive indebtedness of the school board, we believe those figures are a little overdue.

We have found nothing about the present site to cause us to write a line encouraging its continuance as a school. The only thing that could change that opinion is cost, and there certainly would have to be a wide difference to make the Spires in Air look anything but hopelessly antique. And we have talked with only one person who didn't agree. He was a member of the school board.

Without knowing the actual figures we find it difficult to discuss this intelligently, but we see no future in the one at Market and Second. No matter how much you spend, it still will be in a tight parking area. Without buying many expensive homes on valuable property it will be impossible to expand it so that modern facilities can be added. And there is no one among us who can definitely see the future so well that he can say that we never will want to expand even more.

A new school should be on a site which will handle any future need. It should have plenty of acres, such as can be found on the very border of Warren and in localities so close to most homes that no more would need buses than is the case with the shack in which we now operate.

If the school board knows otherwise it certainly is not saying so out loud. And even as we have said of council when it executive sessions on financial matters, this is one which definitely is the public's business.

Let's Have Enough

One hint of the current thinking among some circles involved in this business of building a new school for the Warren area is the suggestion that the auditorium should seat no more than one thousand. The last estimate we saw said the school should have a 1500 seat auditorium. That is far closer to the need.

Even as in the case of Beaty school we no doubt will build a high school to which rooms can be added if the town grows. And being normal, it will. But you cannot add to an auditorium with assurance of complete success. You might build one in such a way that a balcony later could be added, but such a move might completely change the acoustic values.

An auditorium should be designed to meet all expansion situations, even if in the majority of cases a few hundred seats are not filled. We would prefer to see the two or three hundred empties than to have five or six hundred turned away.

Perhaps this is not the day of spectator events, but we believe that one of the best supports you can lend to any participation activity is to bring in leading artists or performers so that the best can be seen by those who either are trying or enjoy watching... or listening.

Certainly the auditorium should be big enough to house all the pupils. And they say this school will have to house away over one thousand. Don't forget that a thousand pupils also means a couple thousand parents. All of them will learn to enjoy the same entertainment if they can find seats.

We still think two thousand is not too large a number. And we still believe that kind of thinking is broader and more sound than the limited view that has left us with such situations as Beaty gym. The short-sighted vision of the past, for which we blame no one, but which we have before us as a horrible example of the mistakes we do not want to make again, should help us decide our future without a repetition of such troubles.
